

Culture of Creativity

Our residents are creators, not just consumers of culture - participants in the human experience, not just recipients of care.

We are more likely to experience wellbeing when:

- it's something we are choosing to do
- it occurs in the context of relationship
- Our achievements are celebrated

Active Suspension

They dare to hope,
caught between the stars
and an unseen reality,
the light guiding them
to places unknown.

Some of us are immobilized between confidence and fear.
We stand together in this contrast,
flying through the darkness, seeking a light to help decide.
